Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians
Administrative/Office Building

CHEROKEE DOT TRANSIT BUILDING

The Cherokee DOT, seeking to gain dedicated office space and reduce crowding within the existing building, moved into their new building in 2012. Owle Construction, LLC, in a contract with the EBCI, constructed a single story, slab on grade building, with block/stone exterior— all designed by Padgett Freeman of Asheville, NC. THE EBCI, in an effort to capture the history behind this site, saved and renovated the existing silo, offering a centerpiece for their new building.
